

ACA Connects to Angels and Entrepreneurs

The Angel Capital Association offers excellent opportunities to build your firms relationship with more than 14,000 angels across North America, the portfolio companies they invest in, and the tens of thousands of entrepreneurs that view ACA's website. A significant number of ACA website users ask ACA for recommendations on legal, accounting and other professional services.

Since 2005 ACA has been the trade association of leading angels across North America - providing professional development, best practices, networking and collaboration opportunities for angel investors. Members angels invest individually or through angel groups, online platforms for accredited investors, family offices, and independent angel investors. ACA also serves as the public policy voice of the angel community.

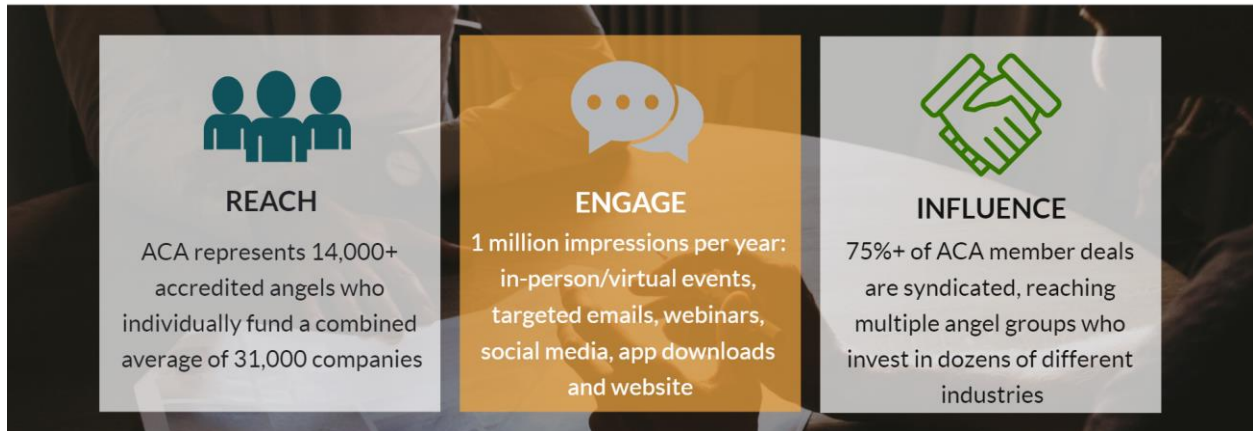

ACA offers a variety of sponsorship opportunities, from annual partnerships that connect firms throughout the year and across media channels to ACA member organizations to specific events and specialized advertising online and in ACA publications.

While ACA attempts to work with sponsors who are leaders in their respective fields, ACA cannot deeply investigate the quality of a sponsor before agreeing to work with them. ACA's acceptance of a sponsor is neither an endorsement of that sponsor, nor a guarantee of the quality of their services. ACA disclaims any warranties, either express or implied, with respect to the quality of sponsor goods or services and reminds members seeking to work with ACA sponsors that they should do their own evaluation of a sponsor's fitness and quality before choosing to do business with them.
